University of Washington

- Master of Business Administration (Finance/Accounting/Tax)

University of Washington

- Bachelor of Arts, (Economics), Honors include cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa awards

PRACTICE AREAS

- Corporate & Business Law
- Estate Planning, Trusts & Probate
- Tax Law

REPRESENTATIVE CASES

- Estate Planning and Probate – George’s experience includes advanced estate planning involving preparation of wills and trusts, charitable and family gifts, private foundations, family limited liability companies, as well as revocable living trusts and guardianships. He has also structured and implemented Qualified Personal Residence Trusts, Generation Skipping Trusts, Grantor Retained Annuity Trusts, Irrevocable Life Insurance Trusts, and other sophisticated trusts involving many millions of dollars of gifts. In addition, George has also handled the legal administration of many large and small estates, giving special consideration to post-mortem planning, and tax return preparation and filing.
- Succession Planning for Businesses – As an attorney for many private businesses, George has developed and implemented many succession plans and other plans of reorganization to facilitate the transfer of ownership and control from one generation to the next. These transactions require careful attention to corporate, estate planning, tax and other areas of law. George strives to structure these transactions to achieve the goals of the parties while at the same time laying the legal foundation for the successful continuation of the business itself.

- Formation, Operation and Liquidation of Businesses – George has assisted in the formation and reorganization of hundreds of businesses. He puts significant focus on well-drafted buy/sell provisions in shareholders agreements, partnership agreements and similar documents in an effort to minimize time consuming and expensive disputes among co-owners of businesses. George also has experience in the negotiation and structuring of limited liability companies, joint ventures and other agreements.
- Purchases and Sales of Businesses – George has participated in several hundred purchases and sales of businesses, representing purchasers as well as sellers. These have taken a wide variety of forms, including sales of assets, sales of stock, “boot strap” redemptions, leveraged buy-outs, mergers and other reorganizations. Besides the actual legal documents, George emphasizes strategy and negotiation to arrive at the best possible result for his clients. Significant tax planning is a critical part of these transactions, and George’s goal is to save more in taxes for his clients than the cost of the legal fees for the transaction.
- Executive Compensation – George’s experience in this area includes drafting detailed employment agreements for executives and other employees, sometimes with covenants not to compete, trade secret provisions and “no employee hire” clauses.
- Representation of Minority Shareholders/Partners – Using a specialized list of techniques developed from experience combined with academic teaching, George regularly represents minority partners in partnerships and limited liability companies, and minority shareholders in corporations, in an effort to provide the legal framework to give them adequate ownership, voting and compensation protections.
